

siliciding the source region and the drain region to form a silicided layer, wherein the depth of the silicided layer is deeper than the second single crystalline semiconductor layer.